

Preface

Preface

Dear Delegates, Chairs, Advisors, and Guests of SEAMUN I 2027
(South East Asian Model United Nations Conference Thailand 2027),

We are thrilled to welcome you to SEAMUN's first-ever conference! With that being said, expectations must be clear in order to maintain the integrity of debate without pushing for excessive competition.

The following document aims to guide you all on the procedures and expectations of the SEAMUN I Conference. The sections will be as follows:

- Introduction → A message from the Secretariat
- Conference Rules → Rules of conduct and authority
- Short Form & Long Form → Brief statements (short form) regarding each rule, in-depth statements (long form) regarding each rule
- Examples → Examples of procedures
- Annex → Resources

Please familiarise yourself with this document as a delegate or chair to ensure you are well prepared for the specific context of SEAMUN I.

Best Regards,

Jules Kitto-Astrop
(The Secretary General)

Introduction

Introduction

SEAMUN I 2027 is the first-ever multinational independent MUN conference completely led by students. The conference spans across 2 whole days, featuring frequent and optional breaks, icebreakers, as well as the highly anticipated debate and committee sessions. The SEAMUN I 2027 conference is open to ages 12-22 (Grade 7-12/Year 8-13 + University Students) with possible exceptions made on a case-by-case basis. SEAMUN invites both individuals and school delegations to participate in the inaugural conference held at the D-PREP Secondary Campus on January 16th and 17th. SEAMUN I 2027 will be made up of ~250 passionate attendees – 200 delegates, 23 chairs, 7 SMT, and 20 advisors.

The benefits of participating in an MUN conference go far beyond a logo or sentence on a college application; the positive impacts of MUN on individuals, schools, nations, and international sectors are ones that I fully encourage. Model United Nations may have started as an academic competition for many, but I hope that by the end of SEAMUN I 2027, every delegate and chair walks away knowing they have a new world of experience and knowledge from the commitment they made. As a new member in the MUN circuit, having only joined in 2025, I aspire to push this conference beyond what others believed to be possible. I aim to build this conference on 3 pillars: purpose, collaboration, and diplomacy.

PURPOSE

Developing solutions that have actionable value, and are viable for real-world implementation.

COLLABORATION

Listening and facilitating communication amongst delegates is far more valuable and impactful than dominating the floor.

DIPLOMACY

Aligning with your country stance and maintaining professionalism.

SEAMUN I 2027 will feature 2 crisis committees for which unique RoPs will be provided :

- 1) SEAMUN I 2027: FWC RoP
- 2) SEAMUN I 2027: UNSC RoP

To ensure everyone's preparedness, the Secretariat of SEAMUN I 2027 strongly encourages all Chairs and Delegates to read at least the first sections of this RoP, which describe the specific flow of committees and the requirements for debate.

Furthermore, please do not hesitate to contact any SMT member or the official communication channels with any inquiries regarding the RoP or your specific committee adaptations. Newer members of MUN are encouraged to thoroughly read through this RoP and resort to several helpful resources provided at the end of this document.

Conference Rules

SEAMUN I: Code of Conduct & Committee Rules

I. Delegate Conduct & Language

- Professional Respect: Absolute respect must be shown to all attendees, including fellow delegates, advisors, Chairs, Secretariat staff, and external providers.
- Political Neutrality: To maintain a safe and inclusive environment, personal political activism must be kept outside the conference. Debates should remain focused on the positions represented rather than personal beliefs.
- Hate Speech & Harassment: Hate speech of any kind is strictly prohibited. This includes "ironic" use or jokes. Any language that targets identity or background will result in immediate disciplinary action.
- Formal Vocabulary: Slang, "brain rot" terminology, and meme references are strictly prohibited during formal sessions. While informal language is permitted during breaks and unmoderated caucuses, excessive use may negatively impact award eligibility.
- Language Policy:
 - English is the primary language of the conference. All formal proceedings and caucusing must be conducted in English.
 - Inappropriate language, including profanity, innuendo, and intentional use of derogatory slurs, is prohibited.

II. Disciplinary System: Warnings and Strikes

To support the learning process while maintaining order, SEAMUN I utilises a tiered disciplinary system:

1. Warnings: Delegates receive up to three warnings for minor infractions or breaches of decorum.
 - a. Strike 1: Following three warnings, a delegate receives their first strike and loses all voting rights for the remainder of the session.
 - b. Strike 2: A second strike results in a suspension of speaking rights in formal sessions.
 - c. Strike 3: A third strike results in the immediate removal of the delegate from the committee and, potentially, from the conference premises.

III. Committee Regulations

- Communication: Cross-talk is prohibited during formal debate. Communication must be conducted through the Chair, during unmoderated caucuses, or via Note Passing.
- Note Passing: Notes are for professional coordination. Inappropriate or harassing notes will be flagged, reported to the Secretariat, and will result in an immediate warning or strike.
- Parliamentary Points: Points of Parliamentary Inquiry or Personal Privilege may be raised at any time and must be recognised by the Chair at the earliest opportunity.
- Position Papers: Submission is required to be eligible for awards. While AI may be used for pre-conference research, generating the paper's text using AI is strictly prohibited.
- Diplomatic Consistency: Delegates must maintain their assigned country/character stance at all times. Deviating from an assigned stance due to personal bias will result in disqualification from all awards.

IV. Technology & Tools

- Artificial Intelligence (AI) Policy:
 - Delegates: Strictly prohibited from using AI to generate speeches or content during the conference (including breaks). Break-time research may use AI briefs or AI summaries but may not conduct back-and-forth responses.
 - Reports of AI use may be submitted privately to the Chair via note. Use of AI may result in automatic disqualification from all awards.
 - Chairs: Permitted to use AI tools for administrative and organisational purposes.
- Props: Permitted only if they are inanimate, non-disruptive, and relevant to the committee theme. Objects that can be interpreted as weapons (including toys) are strictly banned. The chairs must approve all objects in advance.

V. Food & External Services

Food delivery services are a privilege, not a right, and are subject to the following:

- Group Orders: Must include at least 4 individuals and be organised by Committee Chairs.

- Logistics: Payments must be made online. Secretariat staff must be notified via a tracking link immediately upon ordering, and the order will be collected at the entrance.
- Limitations: Committees are limited to two group orders per day. The Secretariat reserves the right to confiscate or cancel orders that disrupt the schedule.

Short Form

Rules of Procedure: Short Form

Chapter 1 - General Rules

1) Validity of the Rules of Procedure (RoP)

- a) These Rules of Procedure (RoP) are the governing authority for the Southeast Asian Model United Nations (SEAMUN I 2027). They apply to all simulated non-crisis committees. In specialised bodies like the UNSC, these rules apply unless superseded by the Crisis Team's specific mandates.

2) Additional Rules

- a) The Secretariat and Committee Chairs may issue additional resources or "Chair Reports." These are to be treated as valid extensions of the RoP. In the event of a procedural dispute or ambiguity, the Parliamentarian and Head of Academics have final authority over interpretation.

3) Dresscode

- a) Delegates are expected to maintain the highest standards of diplomatic decorum. Business Attire or culturally appropriate formal wear is mandatory.
 - i) For SEAMUN I, this includes suits, blazers, dress shirts, and formal footwear.
 - (1) Casual wear (denim, sneakers, t-shirts) is prohibited during sessions.
- b) The dress code will be further explained in this document.

4) The Secretary & Deputy Secretary General

- a) The Secretary-General and the Deputy Secretary-General oversee the conference's overarching vision. They reserve the right to intervene in any committee to ensure the mission—bridging global health policy and diplomacy—is upheld.
- b) All final administrative decisions rest with the Secretary-General.

5) The Crisis Team

- a) The Crisis Team manages the flow of external events. They have the sole authority to approve or deny crises.
- b) Information used in debate must be historically accurate up to January 16, 2027. Any "future" information or updates will be provided exclusively by the Crisis Team.

6) The Dais

- a) Each room is led by a Head Chair and one or two Deputy Chairs.
 - i) Authority: The Head Chair directs the flow of debate. Deputy Chairs support research and procedural tracking but should actively participate in recognition and feedback without undermining the Head Chair.
 - ii) The Floor: Only the recognised Delegate with the floor or the Chairs may speak. Exceptions are made only for urgent Points of Order or Personal Privilege.

7) Digital Note System

- a) SEAMUN I utilises a digital system: intermun.site.
 - i) Credentials: Provided upon registration via a physical slip.
 - ii) Monitoring: The Secretariat monitors all digital communications.
 - (1) Any undiplomatic, harassing, or inappropriate content will be flagged and may result in disqualification.
 - iii) Pre-Lobbying: Formal lobbying and the drafting of content before the conference are strictly prohibited to ensure a fair and collaborative environment.

Chapter 2 - General Sessions

1) Roll Call

- a) At the start of every session, the chairs will conduct a roll call.
- b) Delegates must respond with:
 - i) Present: The delegate is in the room and must vote on all procedural matters.
 - ii) Absent: Logged if a delegate is not present. Late arrivals must send a note to the Dais to be marked "Present."

2) Majorities and Voting

- a) Simple Majority: 50% of the present delegates plus one (1) vote.
- b) Two-Thirds Majority: 66% of the present delegates plus one (1) vote. Used for high-impact procedural changes.

3) Opening Speeches

- a) All delegates must begin their speeches with an address to the room (e.g., Honourable Chairs, Esteemed Delegates)
- b) Speeches generally follow a simple formula
 - i) Address, Hook, Stance, Call to Action, Thank you, and Yield.
 - (1) Delegates may yield to the following:
 - (a) Back to the chair – chairs will then proceed with the next action
- c) Interruptions are only permitted for the following points and are highly discouraged during speeches:
 - i) Point of Order
 - ii) Point of Personal Privilege (if it concerns the entire committee)

Chapter 3 - Points & Motions

4) Motions

- a) All motions are further explained in the long-form version of this RoP
- b) Interviews: An opportunity to learn about the current events in other committees via a short interview with a delegate.
 - i) The motion must include: Total time and Related Assignment. (e.g., "Motion for 20 minute interview period for completing the breaking news/news report assignment.")
- c) Press Conferences: Formal session where editors or journalists invite a committee chair to nominate a delegate (via volunteer or of their own accord) to engage in the press conference.
 - i) Motion must specify a total time and committee. (e.g., "Motion for a press conference for UNODC.")
 - (1) Delegates from other committees may also request a press conference via InterMUN through their chairs and the editors.

5) Motion Hierarchy

- a) If multiple motions are on the floor, the Chair will vote on them in order of "disruptiveness":
 - i) Interviews (Starts an interview session for free roaming)
 - ii) Press Conference (Requires all delegates to engage in writing for a given committee)
 - iii) Writing Time (Allows journalists to stay in the committee room and write their articles – must not collaborate but may discuss)

6) Points

- a) Points are used to address personal or procedural concerns and do not require a vote:
 - i) Point of Personal Privilege: Used for physical discomfort (e.g., "Cannot hear the speaker," "Room is too cold"). Can interrupt a speaker only if it concerns audibility.
 - ii) Point of Order: Used when a delegate believes the Chair has made a procedural error.
 - iii) Point of Parliamentary Inquiry: A question to the Chair regarding the RoP.

Chapter 4 - Voting Procedures

7) Structure of Voting

- a) Methods of Voting:
 - i) By Show of Placards: The standard method.
 - ii) By Roll Call Vote: A delegate may motion for this. The Chair calls each country in turn. Delegates may vote: Yes, No, Yes with Rights, No with Rights, or Abstain.

Chapter 5 - Order

8) Review & Publishing Flow

- a) Roll Call
- b) Opening Speeches
 - Start of Repeat Section
- c) Assignment #X
- d) Motion proposed

- e) Motion enacted
 - f) Deadline
 - g) Review & Publishing
- End of Repeat Section

NOTE: The review process happens directly after the article has been submitted but all are required to be submitted by the deadline or they will not be considered.

Chapter 6 - Publishing

9) Review & Publishing Flow

- a) Drafting: Delegate writes the piece following style guides and agency stance.
- b) Editorial Review: Submitted to the Editor-in-Chief for edits, fact-checking, and style approval.
- c) Publication: Approved articles are published via digital portals, or live media feeds for all conference delegates to read.

Long Form

Rules of Procedure: Long Form

Chapter 1 - General Rules

8) Validity of the Rules of Procedure (RoP)

- a) These Rules of Procedure (RoP) govern the Southeast Asian Model United Nations (SEAMUN I 2027). They apply to all simulated non-crisis committees. In specialised bodies like the UNSC, these rules apply unless superseded by the Crisis Team's specific mandates.

9) Additional Rules

- a) The Secretariat and Committee Chairs may issue additional resources or "Chair Reports." These are to be treated as valid extensions of the RoP. In the event of a procedural dispute or ambiguity, the Parliamentarian and Head of Academics have final authority over interpretation.

10) Dresscode

- a) Delegates are expected to maintain the highest standards of diplomatic decorum. Business Attire or culturally appropriate formal wear is mandatory.
 - i) For SEAMUN I, this includes suits, blazers, dress shirts, and formal footwear.
 - (1) Casual wear (denim, sneakers, t-shirts) is prohibited during sessions.
- b) The dress code will be further explained in this document.

11) The Secretary & Deputy Secretary General

- a) The Secretary-General and the Deputy Secretary-General oversee the conference's overarching vision. They reserve the right to intervene in any committee to ensure the mission—bridging global health policy and diplomacy—is upheld.
- b) All final administrative decisions rest with the Secretary-General.

12) The Crisis Team

- a) The Crisis Team manages the flow of external events. They have the sole authority to approve or deny crises.
- b) Information used in debate must be historically accurate up to January 16, 2027. Any "future" information or updates will be provided exclusively by the Crisis Team.

13)The Dais

- a) Each committee will be handled by two (or three) chairs. For crisis committees, a third chair will be present for the purpose of directive handling. Generally, the flow will follow the Head Chairs' discretion with Deputy Chair consultation. However, Deputy Chairs should be as active as the Head Chairs without undermining authority and experience.
- b) The Chairs will handle the moderated debates by recognising a delegate's motion, point, or speech. Only the following people should speak at any given time (excluding unmoderated caucus):
 - i) The Chairs
 - ii) The Delegate with the Floor
 - iii) Delegates wishing to raise a Point of Parliamentary Inquiry, Order, or Personal Privilege

14) Other

- a) The Secretariat has selected excellent debate topics and is responsible for approving background guides/chair reports for each committee, as well as facilitating committee Instagram group chats for pre-conference questions, announcements, and informal but relevant topic discussions.
- b) Pre-lobbying is not permitted.
- c) During registration, delegates will receive a slip with their note-passing credentials, which must be entered into intermun.site to participate in the digital note-passing system.
 - i) The platform enables informal communication but also reminds all conference members that all notes are available to the Secretariat and that reporting options will be implemented to prevent inappropriate or undiplomatic contact.
- d) The Secretariat will hold pre-conference meetings to review MUN procedures interactively. These sessions will be titled "Intro to MUN" and will last approximately 30 minutes.
- e) Committee meetings are mandatory and are to be facilitated by a Secretariat member.
- f) Individual delegate meetings are available upon request and at the chair's discretion.

- i) Individual sessions with the Secretariat will also be available to prepare delegates as best we can before the conference and to provide knowledge that delegates will carry throughout their MUN careers.

Chapter 2 - General Sessions

10) Roll Call

- a) Before the beginning of any committee session, the Chairs will take “roll call”, they will state each member's country name and wait for a response of one of the following :
 - i) Present – acknowledges the presence of the delegate
 - ii) Absent - determined by the chairs when a delegate is not in the room
- b) Delegates may change their stance at any point via a note to the chairs

11) Majorities and Voting

- a) Every member has one equal vote and cannot vote on behalf of another nation
- b) Simple majority: Lies at 50% of all delegates present +1 vote
- c) Two-Thirds majority: Lies at two-thirds of all delegates present + 1 vote

12) Opening Speeches

- a) All delegates must begin their speeches with an address to the room (e.g., Honourable Chairs, Esteemed Delegates)
- b) Speeches generally follow a simple formula
 - i) Address, Hook, Stance, Call to Action, Thank you, and Yield.
 - (1) Delegates may yield to the following:
 - (a) Back to the chair – chairs will then move on to the next speaker.
- c) Interruptions are only permitted for the following points and are highly discouraged during speeches:
 - i) Point of Order
 - ii) Point of Personal Privilege (if it concerns the entire committee)

Chapter 3 - Points & Motions

13) Motions

- a) One motion per round is permitted per delegate.
- b) Motions allowed at SEAMUN I 2027 are as follows:
 - i) Motion to Extend Opening Speech Time
 - ii) Motion for a Roll Call Vote
 - iii) Motion for an Interview
 - iv) Motion for a Press Conference
- c) Motions may be raised at any time the floor is open to motions, as called by the chairs.
- d) Motions used only during voting – ii
- e) Motions used only during debate – i, iii, iv
- f) Motions must be voted on; no member may abstain
- g) Delegates may second a motion (without needing to obtain the floor)
 - i) If 2 or more delegates second a motion and there are no objections → motion automatically passes

14) Motion Hierarchy

- a) After the chairs have collected motions, they will be dealt with in order from most to least disruptive. The hierarchy is as follows:
 - i) Interviews (Starts an interview session for free roaming)
 - ii) Press Conference (Requires all delegates to engage in writing for a given committee)
 - iii) Writing Time (Allows journalists to stay in the committee room and write their articles – must not collaborate but may discuss)
- b) Equally disruptive motions will be addressed based on the total time proposed.

15) Points

- a) Points must be directed to the chairs/through the chairs.
- b) Points allowed at SEAMUN I 2027 are :
 - i) Point of Parliamentary Inquiry
 - ii) Point of Order
 - iii) Point of Personal Privilege
- c) All points are further explained in the Motions & Points section

Chapter 4 - Voting Procedures

16) Structure of Voting

- a) Methods of Voting:
 - i) By Show of Placards: The standard method.
 - ii) By Roll Call Vote: A delegate may motion for this. The Chair calls each country in turn. Delegates may vote: Yes, No, Yes with Rights, No with Rights, or Abstain. (Rights allow a delegate to explain a vote that contradicts their previous stance.)

Chapter 5 - Order

17) Review & Publishing Flow

- a) Roll Call: Editors list all journalists/news outlets one by one and wait for the response.
- b) Opening Speeches: Editors call upon each journalist/news outlet one by one for their speeches.
— Start of Repeat Section
- c) Assignment #X: Editors assign tasks based on what is appropriate and needed and sets a deadline.
- d) Motion proposed: Journalists/news outlets propose motions and then vote upon them.
- e) Motion enacted: The committee then enters whatever motion passes.
- f) Deadline: The deadline is sent via InterMUN and is written on the board. Journalists are encouraged to set mobile timers/alarms for the deadlines.
- g) Review & Publishing: The review occurs after submission and is then published on the Press Corps Instagram.
— End of Repeat Section

NOTE: The review process happens directly after the article has been submitted but all are required to be submitted by the deadline or they will not be considered.

Chapter 6 - Publishing

18) Review & Publishing Flow

- a) Drafting: Delegate writes the piece following style guides and agency stance.
- b) Editorial Review: Submitted to the Editors for edits, fact-checking, and style approval.
- c) Publication: Approved articles are published via digital portals, or live media feeds for all conference delegates to read.

Motions & Points

Points & Motions

Points

Point of Parliamentary Inquiry: This enables delegates to ask questions to clarify previous, current, or future procedures regarding the committee, such as speaker time, number of submitters, the meaning of a motion or point, etc.

Point of Order: This enables delegates to correct chairs if they make a mistake in parliamentary procedure.

Point of Personal Privilege: This enables delegates to request an environmental change if it affects the entire room, such as the temperature (air conditioning).

Motions

Motion to Extend Opening Speech Time: This enables journalists to extend their speeches either for more content or clarity in order to provide a stronger stance for other delegates to connect with.

Motion for Roll Call Voting: This enables journalists to propose an alternative voting method that ensures all votes are recorded accurately and no one is missed.

Motion for Interviews: This enables journalists to propose a duration for all journalists to engage in interviews with a committee of their choice. The choice must be confirmed with the editors to ensure their location is known and not too many journalists go to the same room. This can be done via a motion and editors will use the interview system to request a delegate for an interview which the chairs will either approve or deny, if approved they will select a delegate and send that delegate an automated note that asks them to go for an interview.

Motion for a Press Conference: This enables journalists to engage in a Q & A as well as listen to a summarized stance of a nominated or volunteering delegate. This can be done via a motion then chairs will send a note to the committee chairs or use the press conference system to request a delegate.

Annex

Annex

Press Corps Assignments

Throughout the conference, journalists may be asked to produce different forms of media based on the events unfolding across committees.

Assignment	Primary Purpose
Breaking News / News Report	Report important developments accurately, clearly, and promptly.
Op-Ed (Opinion / Editorial)	Analyse an issue or event from the perspective and editorial position of the journalist's assigned news agency.
Investigative / Exposure Article	Investigate an issue in greater depth by gathering evidence, identifying different perspectives, and conducting interviews.
Visual Media	Communicate conference developments through purposeful visual journalism.
Short Form Video	Deliver concise and engaging coverage suitable for a short-form digital format.

Interviews

Journalists may interview delegates to gather quotations, perspectives, explanations, and information for their assignments.

To begin an interview period:

Motion for a [X]-minute interview period for completing the [X] assignment.

Once approved:

1. Confirm the committee you wish to visit with the Editors.
2. The Editors will coordinate the interview request with the relevant committee.
3. The Committee Chairs may approve or deny the request.
4. If approved, the Chairs will select or approve a delegate to participate.
5. Conduct the interview professionally and return according to the instructions of the Editors.

Journalists should not independently enter another committee or remove a delegate from debate without approval.

Press Conference

A Press Conference allows journalists to question a delegate regarding developments, policy positions, committee decisions, or other relevant matters.

Motion for a Press Conference with a [X] delegate.

The request will be coordinated with the relevant Committee Chairs. A delegate may volunteer or be nominated to participate.

During a Press Conference, journalists should:

- Ask concise and relevant questions.
- Allow the delegate an appropriate opportunity to respond.
- Ask follow-up questions where clarification is necessary.
- Maintain professional journalistic conduct.
- Distinguish clearly between a delegate's statements and the journalist's own interpretation.

Before Submission

Before submitting any Press Corps assignment, ask yourself:

ACCURACY

Have I represented events, quotations, and committee positions accurately?

ATTRIBUTION

Is it clear where important information and statements came from?

PERSPECTIVE

Does the piece appropriately reflect the perspective of my assigned news agency?

PURPOSE

Does the format and content suit the assignment I am completing?

PROFESSIONALISM

Would this piece be appropriate for publication by a professional news organisation?

CLARITY

Can someone who was not present in the committee understand what happened and why it matters?

Important Note

The Press Corps is not simply observing SEAMUN I.

You are documenting it.

Ask questions. Follow developments. Verify information. Seek different perspectives. Look beyond what happened to understand why it happened, who it affects, and why it matters.

When unsure about an assignment, interview, Press Conference, or Press Corps procedure, consult your Editors before proceeding.

Research, Sources, & Verification

Journalists are responsible for the accuracy of the content they publish. Information gathered during SEAMUN I should therefore be verified, appropriately attributed, and distinguished from opinion or speculation.

Source Reliability

When researching an issue or verifying a claim, consider the reliability of the source.

Level	Source Type	Examples	How to Use
1 — Primary	Direct evidence	Interviews · Speeches · Resolutions · Official documents · Committee proceedings	Strongest starting point
2 — Authoritative	Established institutions	UN agencies · Governments · Universities · Official statistics	Highly reliable , but consider context
3 — Professional Journalism	Established news organisations	Reuters · AP · BBC · AFP · Al Jazeera	Useful for reporting and context
4 — Secondary	Analysis and commentary	Research organisations · NGOs · Think tanks · Expert commentary	Useful , but check perspective and methodology
5 — Unverified	Open or unattributed information	Social media posts · Anonymous claims · Screenshots · Rumours	Verify before using

A source being lower on the ladder does not automatically make it false. It means that more verification may be required before treating the information as fact.

SEAMUN Verification Test

Before publishing an important claim, ask:

S — SOURCE

Who is providing the information?

Can the original source be identified?

Are they in a position to know?

E — EVIDENCE

What supports the claim?

Is there a document, quotation, interview, statistic, image, video, or other evidence?

A — ALTERNATIVE

Can another source confirm it?

Look for independent confirmation rather than several reports that all repeat the same original claim.

M — MOTIVE

Why might this source be saying this?

Consider political, diplomatic, financial, ideological, or strategic motivations.

U — UNCERTAINTY

What do we still not know?

Do not present assumptions, predictions, or rumours as established facts.

N — NEW

Is the information new to the audience?

If you cannot highlight a unique aspect of the publication, it is not ready.

Fact, Analysis, & Opinion

Journalists should make the distinction clear.

FACT

A statement that can be supported by evidence.

- The delegate voted against the resolution.

ANALYSIS

An interpretation based on available evidence.

- The vote suggests the delegation may be distancing itself from the emerging bloc.

OPINION

A judgement or argument made by the journalist or publication.

- The delegation made the wrong decision by rejecting the resolution.

Analysis and opinion are not automatically inappropriate — particularly within an Op-Ed — but they should never be disguised as verified fact.

Using Interviews as a Source

When interviewing delegates:

ASK → Use clear, purposeful questions.

LISTEN → Follow the answer rather than simply moving to your next prepared question.

CLARIFY → Ask follow-up questions when an answer is ambiguous.

RECORD → Take accurate notes of important statements.

ATTRIBUTE → Make it clear who provided the information.

VERIFY → Remember that an interviewee making a claim does not automatically make that claim true.

A journalist may accurately report:

“The Delegate of X claimed that...”

without asserting that the delegate's claim itself has been independently verified.

Two-Source Principle

For significant or disputed factual claims, journalists should seek confirmation from more than one independent source whenever reasonably possible.

Two websites repeating the same original report are not necessarily two independent sources.

When only one source is available, clearly attribute the information rather than presenting an unverified claim as established fact.

Accuracy > Speed

Breaking news is valuable because it is fast.

Journalism is valuable because it is trustworthy.

Being first means very little if what you publish is wrong.
